Kelly supports, advises, and protects her clients as they navigate through a variety of legal matters, including cases involved in civil litigation. Her practice ranges from health care law and professional liability defense, employment and discrimination matters, insurance defense and subrogation, to construction and commercial disputes and tax concerns. Kelly is frequently sought by insurance companies, hospitals, educational institutions, small and large business employers, educators, and medical professionals to present at seminars on matters of risk management, professional liability, employment concerns, and ethics. Since joining the firm in 2010, she consistently has been ranked in New England Super Lawyers and Super Lawyers. Best Lawyers recognized Kelly beginning in 2018 for her work in: Litigation - Labor and Employment and Professional Malpractice Law - Defendants. In 2020, Kelly was awarded "Lawyer of the Year" by Best Lawyers in the area of Professional Malpractice Law (Defendants).

Kelly's undergraduate and master studies focused on international studies and economics. She is fluent in German and speaks Polish and Italian. While attending the University of Maine School of Law, she worked as a summer associate at the Viennese law firm of Hausmaninger Kletter in Austria, assisting multi-national corporations in resolving disputes and participating in complex international arbitration. During law school, Kelly was a member of Moot Court Board and awarded recognition for writing the Best Respondent's Brief. She also was an editor for the Ocean and Coastal Law Journal and authored an article about the international debate surrounding alewives and the use of shared fishing ladders by Canada and the United States.

Kelly served as aide to Virginia Senator John W. Warner while an undergraduate student at Johns Hopkins University. As a star athlete, she was a goalkeeper for both the Hopkins field hockey and lacrosse teams and was honored as an All-American in field hockey. In 2018, she was named by the U.S. Women's Masters Olympic Field Hockey Committee to its traveling team and represented Team USA during the International Hockey Federation (FIH) Masters World Cup in Terrassa, Spain.
